MAINE TEAM LOSES HARD FOUGHT GAME TO COLBY ELEVEN

Lone Touchdown in First Quarter
Proves to Be a Winner for
Colby

Maine lost to Colby 7-0 Saturday afternoon at Waterville in a fast, hard game. A majority of the Maine student body was in the record-breaking crowd which saw the two powerful teams battle for honors. A bad break by Maine at the first of the initial period when Ward failed to get the Colby punt and Sullivan recovered on the Blue 10 yard line, put Colby in a position to score. After two tries at the line, MacDonald tossed a pass to Tarpey across the Maine goal line. Sou'e kicked the goal. Maine was in a position to score, on the four yard line, when the whistle ended the first half. Maine had the ball the greater part of the game but her steady gains were offset by a fumble at the beginning of the third period, several penalties, and a general inability to score when most needed.

Capt. Small, Gruhn and Blair all took the pigskin for long gains. Newhall at left end played a sensational game. Millett and Small, punters for the two opposing teams got off some long high kicks. Carson, Millett and Dunnack showed the stuff for Colby, to say nothing of MacDonald and Tarpey on either end of several clever forward passes. Both Colby and Maine played fast, clever football.

The first period was started with Maine on the receiving end, Goodrich of Colby kicking off. Ward was down on the 20 yard line. Small punted a few minutes later to Colby. Unable to advance beyond the Maine forty yard line, with several unsuccessful forwards, Millett kicked 30 yards. Ward was unable to hold the ball and it was recovered by Sullivan on the Maine ten yard line. After two tries at the Maine line with only very small gains, a pass to Tarpey, who received it across the goal line, gave Colby the only touchdown of the afternoon. Sou'e kicked the goal for the extra point.

On the next kickoff, the Blue received the ball on the 20 yard line and started a drive down the field. After Maine had first down for the second time, Small made a pretty end run of 25 yards. Colby held them within the ten yards and had first down on their own twenty yard line. A penalty for Colby and they were forced to kick, Merritt receiving on the forty yard line. Period. Maine 0, Colby 7.

The second period saw Maine driving down the field, alternating line plays and forward passes. On holding the Blue for downs, Colby punted off side and it was Maine's ball once more on the Colby 35 yard line. Thus it was until toward the end of the first half, when a pass to Newhall brought the ball to Colby's ten yard line. An end run netted five yards more. The whistle announcing the end of the half put an end to Maine's chance to score from that position.

Colby obtained a chance to kick the goal when Blair fumbled and Goodrich

Maine Has a New Marching Song Composed by C. H. Bartlett '14

The long felt need of the University of Maine for a rousing football song has been supplied by Charles D. Bartlett of Bangor, a well-known lawyer of that city who was graduated from the University of Maine Law School in 1914. Learn the words before Maine Night.

Marching, we're marching to vict'ry
Sweeping resistance away
Tearing along with cheering
Maine's going to conquer today.

RAH RAH RAH

Now we are nearing the goal line
Gain on steady gain
Nothing can stop us from scoring
Touchdown for Maine, Maine, Maine.

For Maine, for Maine, for M-A-I-N-E, Maine.

HILLMAN WINNER OF TRIANGULAR MEET

Maine Harriers Lose to Dartmouth
By Only Three Points, Defeating Harvard Runners

The triangular cross-country run over the five mile riverbank course at Harvard, October 26, was won by Dartmouth with Maine trailing three points behind and Harvard in the rut. Dartmouth's victory was due to team work. From the start of the race to the two and one-half mile march there were five green jerseyed men running abreast; allowing no one to go by, but when they came into the open "Art" Hillman and Capt. Raymond fooled them. They took the lead as they encountered the only hill in the course and left their opponents behind out of striking distance. It was this hill which gave many of our Maine men the advantage over some of the other opponents.

Hillman was the first to break the tape with Raymond 100 yards behind. Byron Cutcheon of Harvard finished third, closely followed by six Dartmouth men with Patten wedged in between the second and third. Hart and Ames landed the 13th and 14th places but these could not lift the team score above that of Dartmouth.

FORMER MAINE MEN AMAZE GOTHAMITES

Professors Pearl and Raymond
Say New York's Population
Will be 29,000,000 in 80
Years

The prediction that New York city will have a population of 29,000,000 in the year 2000 is made by Prof. Raymond Pearl and Prof. Lowell G. Reed of the school of hygiene and public health of Johns Hopkins University. Prof. Raymond Pearl was connected with the experiment station of University of Maine for many years. Prof. Lowell G. Reed graduated from Maine in the class of 1907. After his graduation he became a member of the faculty. Both Prof. Pearl and Prof. Reed left the University at the commencement of the war to enter the food administration under Hoover. At the close of the war these two men became members of the faculty at Johns Hopkins University, where they are still serving.

In the summary of their investigations, Mr. Pearl and Mr. Reed say:
"The distribution of population by age will be about the same in the year 2000 as at present, so that such groups as children of school age, persons of voting age, etc., will be increased over the present value by the same factors as those previously given for the general population. The negro population will have tripled and will constitute 5 per cent of the total population, whereas at present they form but 3 per cent of the total.

"The foreign-born population will have increased from its present value of 2,080,000 persons to approximately 3,750,000, which will be about the peak of this element of the population. Expressed as a percentage of the total population, the foreign-born in the year 2000 will be less than at present, the percentage at that time being 26.9 as against 36.3 at present.

Cross Country Team to Run in Waterville Friday

Friday afternoon the cross country team will go to Waterville determined to add another victory to Maine's long list of victories.

There will be a strong aggregation of runners in the field this year from all four colleges. Capt. Payne of Colby, Capt. McGinley of Bates and Foster of Bowdoin will be hard men to beat, but we believe that in Hillman and Raymond we have the men who will bring home the honors.

Maine will be represented by the seven men who finished first for Maine in the meet last week. They are Berg, Hart, Raymond, Hillman, Ames, Patten and Nowlen.

These men make up a hard fighting team that is showing the "Old Maine Fight." Hillman will have a good chance to set a new record for the Colby track if the weather conditions are as good as they were last Saturday when he lowered the Harvard course record by more than one minute.

Students to Rally Round a Xmas Tree

Will Mark Completion of "Maine in Turkey" Drive for Funds With Unique Pre-Holiday Celebration, Lee
And Helen Vrooman to Sail Next Summer.

Just before they leave for their Christmas vacations this year, over 1,200 Maine students, men and women, will gather in the oval about the first Christmas tree that the University has ever had. With joy in their hearts they will join with the Glee Clubs in singing Christmas carols and in having a real Christmas celebration, with all the Yuletide fixin's. It will be the biggest fir tree on the campus, and it will be laden with yards upon yards of glistening tinsel, hundreds of brightly-colored lights and all the things that go to make up a real, honest-to-goodness Christmas. It will be the first event of its kind that has ever been attempted at the University and every indication at present points to its complete success.

It will be a truly festive occasion. Every student will be filled with the Yuletide spirit because it is almost time to go home for the long vacation, and every student will feel a thrill of pride as the thought comes to him that at last the Maine in Turkey program is coming to full realization. And every student will know that through his own efforts the program was made possible. And so the Christmas tree will have a double significance. It will mean Christmas vacation and it will mean the final realization of the hopes and ideals of Maine students of today and of yesterday.

TO MARK CLOSE OF DRIVE

Select Committees for Third Winter Carnival

The third annual Winter Carnival is to be held Feb. 7, 8, and 9. The events will be run off on the river and will be open to all. The ski jump will be raised 15 feet and the take off lengthened four or five feet. There will be intercollegiate competition in all events and the points won by the teams will be combined with the points they win in the Augusta and Auburn carnivals to determine the state championship. The Maine team has held the championship for two years. The carnival is one of the best in the state as it is recognized by the Maine Intercollegiate Winter Sports Association. It is the only one in the state which is solely under the direction of a college. All the other colleges that maintain winter carnivals must depend for part of their support from chambers of commerce or similar organizations.

Plans are being laid for a "bigger and better" carnival by the following

This Yuletide celebration will be the final act in a drama that will take place on the campus, and which will last two days. On those two days the outstanding figures of the Turkish situation, King Birge, who will address the students at chapel.

King Birge is one of the biggest figures in the international history of the world of today and he will come to Maine with a vital message for the students here. He will tell in his inimitable fashion of his experiences during the past half dozen years in Turkey and of the things he saw there and of the things that are happening at present and what they mean to the world. Since his return to America, King Birge has served as student secretary of the college Y. M. C. A.'s of New England.

He will usher in the Maine in Turkey Drive, which will give every student an opportunity to express his appreciation of the project that will put the University of Maine on the international map. Last year it was the Student

Twenty-Four Former Students Are Sending Their Children to Maine

More than 20 sons and daughters of former Maine students are now enrolled upon the records of the University according to the revised list which has been secured by the Campus since the publication of a partial count last week. Of this number, as was previously mentioned, one of the new students is doubly connected with former days, being a son as well as a grandson of a graduate.

While this record may still be incomplete, it warrants publication in full with the added request that the attention of the editors be called again to any omissions. The list:

The English Department

In the current issue of The American Magazine, there is a story about a woman who made herself independently rich by selling coffee and cocoa. Doubtless she sold it at ten cents a cup.

Welcoming Alumni

Maine Night will bring back a large number of graduates and former students who will regale us with stories about the "good old days." Bolivar yarns, and stories about the hazing escapades of the pre-bellum days will be told again for the benefit of the freshmen. They are a part of our traditions, and as such they deserve respect.

There is the tale of the sturdy gang from Orono which raised havoc with a crowd of Colby supporters; there is another yarn about the depredations of Maine rooters at Bowdoin, and countless others about what "our boys" did somewhere else. Stealing signs, damaging property, and defrauding railroad companies is always justified, the narrators say, in the name of "college spirit."

In some respects "college spirit" is very similar to the "mob spirit" we deplore in sociological discussions. When this mythical "spirit" blinds a group of men to the rights of other men, it is more dangerous than desirable.

It is customary for some returning alumni to bemoan the passing of the "old spirit" and to lament the present effeminate trend. Times are not the same, they say. No, the times are not entirely the same. We do not deface the campus with numerals; we do not deprive freshmen of their hair; we do not do many of the things they did in the "good old days."

However, despite this neglect on the part of the student body, the University of Maine thrives and enjoys the respect of the entire state. We think it is a better place than it was in the "good old days."

A Plain Talk

A football rally is supposed to be an occasion when the entire student body lays aside selfish pleasures long enough to gather and give the members of its team the encouragement that will raise their morale to a pitch where they are determined to fight their way to victory on the gridiron.

The rally held last Friday night was decidedly nothing of the sort. Only a small proportion of the students were present. Of the others a few were on their way to Waterville, and a few more were in Boston, but by far the greatest percentage of those who were absent were pursuing selfish pleasures, evidently not caring whether Maine would win the Colby game or not.

So melancholy a rally has not been seen before this year. From the time one entered Alumni Hall one was surrounded by an atmosphere of gloom. The cheering was small in volume and unconvincing.

The degrading effect of such conditions on the morale of the assembled players should not be underestimated. It is safe to say that every football man who was there left feeling worse than when he came, for the men could not help feeling that Maine was not behind them.

With such a lack of support on an occasion so important as a State series game, the team could not be expected to do its best. We suggest that those who were absent from the rally blame themselves for Maine's defeat rather than the disheartened team.

Maine's New Football Song

The new football song, which was written and composed by Charles Bartlett of the class of 1914, was received with enthusiastic approval by the chapel audiences Monday and Tuesday. The students entered with eagerness into the task of learning it, and mastered its jolly words and rollicking tune very well.

The University is much indebted to Mr. Bartlett for this song, for it fills a need that has long been in evidence.

This song is especially valuable for coming at this time. The Campus is confident that the team and Maine's loyal supporters will take it as their inspiration and go "Marching to Victory" in Saturday's battle.

About the Bleachers

The University of Maine bleachers are to be sent to Portland to help seat the crowd at the Maine-New Hampshire game November 10. In order to insure time to unload and set them up they must arrive in Portland by Tuesday night. This leaves but a short time after the Bowdoin game for the bleachers to be dissembled and loaded on the cars. It is necessary that the students turn out in good numbers to take them down when the call is issued.

Owing to the pressure for time it has been suggested that the work be done Sunday, as it would be almost impossible to find enough students who would have the time to do it Monday. Instead of the usual aimless walks or half-hearted attempts to study, a little brisk exercise at dissembling bleachers Sunday afternoon would be more of a diversion and of greater benefit to anyone.

As announced in this issue of the Campus, Maine is to have her first Christmas celebration this year. A mammoth Christmas tree, brightly lighted and sparkling with ornaments, will announce the culmination of a drive to secure final funds to send the Maine "team," Mr. and Mrs. Lee Vrooman, to Turkey, to represent the University there. This project will be an all Maine one and it is fitting that graduates of this institution should start the movement in Turkey. The University of Maine could do no bigger or finer thing than this. It means the bringing of the light of education to the people of a darkened land. It means one more step toward peace and good will among men. If we were to look at the matter selfishly we might take some satisfaction in the realization that the project will do more for the University than anything else could. It will call the attention of the world to the finest university on the earth. The same spirit that makes the Maine "hello" the wonderful thing that it is will cause every student to dig deep into his pocket or her pocketbook and give first for Maine and second for Turkey. So far this year it has been "on to Lewiston" and "On to Waterville." Now let it be "ON TO TURKEY" and LET'S GO!

SCRATCHES FROM THE SPORT PEN

The final of the interclass relays will be held between halves of the Maine-Bowdoin game next Saturday. The race is between the Sophomore and Freshman teams.

The varsity-freshman cross country meet was held Friday afternoon over the freshman course. A good sized squad started. The order of finish of the first ten men is Taylor, Smith, Murray, Stoneford, Gero, Hutchinson, Torry, Durgin, Gardiner, Parkman.

Colby cross country team won from B. U. at Waterville before the Maine-Colby game. Paine of Colby won, running the course in 34 min.

The Maine squad placed fairly well in the meet at Cambridge placing men in 1st, 2, 6, 13, 14. This showing against the well balanced Green team and Harvard is considered very good, especially the placing of the first three Blue runners.

Have you ever stopped to consider what Maine's Cross Country team is made up of. There are four captains: Capt. Raymond, cross country; Capt. Berg, basketball; Capt. Strong, relay; and Capt. Ames, track.

It was lucky for Dartmouth that there were not more hills on the course.

An incident which happened on the course: A Dartmouth runner came up alongside a Maine runner and said, "Let's go get this fellow (a Harvard runner) I had rather see Maine win than Harvard." The Maine runner was so interested in beating the Harvard fellow he went off and left the Dartmouth fellow.

SENATE ACTS

A meeting of the Senate was held last week in which two questions of interest to the student body were acted upon.

The first, a bill regarding the financing of non-athletic student activities, was introduced by Ed Curran, and was passed by a unanimous vote. As a result of the action on the second question, there will be a slight change in the college calendar. Friday during winter carnival will be observed as a holiday instead of Monday after Easter.

Repairing Winslow

Extensive repairs are now being made on the exterior of Winslow Hall, necessitated by the loosening of the stone coping and the danger of its falling at any time by the action of snow and frost. Instead of restoring the original stone, they are replacing it with plank bolted to the brick walls and painted. It is expected that the work will be completed soon.

Phi Mu Hallowe'en Party

Friday night, Oct. 26, Phi Mu gave a Hallowe'en party at Alumni Hall. The gym was tastefully decorated in black and orange streamers, with cornstalks and jack-o'-lanterns placed at intervals.

Cider and doughnuts were provided during the evening and at intermission ice cream with orange and black sauce and fancy crackers was served.

A contra dance, confetti dance, pipe dance, and fancy cap dance added to the fun of the evening. Two witches wandered around mysteriously and told fortunes. So much did their cards tell that Bill Murray was afraid to venture near them for fear of having his past exposed.

The chaperones were Mrs. Hart and Mrs. Huddilston. Music was furnished by Paul Atwood's orchestra.

The Men's Rifle team now has exceeded the membership quota of 100, and Coach Kidney reports that things are going strong.

The Girls' Rifle team will stage an intercollegiate match with a team representing the University of Maryland Thursday afternoon.

Maine suffered defeat at the hands of Colby while the Garnet team from Lewiston run over Bowdoin last Saturday.

The State series stands as follows:

	Won	Lost	Tied	%
Colby	1	0	1	1.000
Maine	1	1	0	.500
Bates	1	1	0	.500
Bowdoin	0	1	1	.000

It was lucky for Colby that they got the big break which enabled them to score, for otherwise they were not within scoring distance all through the game.

Colby played in luck Saturday as is shown by the number of yards that the Maine team gained against the small number that Colby was able to pile up. This figured up as follows: Maine gained 269 yards while the gray team could collect only 72.

Some of the surprises that came from the football games Saturday follows:

Maine 0—Colby 7.
Bates 12—Bowdoin 7.
Dartmouth 16—Harvard 0.
Williams 10—Columbia 0.

The big game of the season for the Blue and White team is only a few days off now and one of the largest crowds ever on Alumni Field is expected to witness this battle. If Maine defeats Bowdoin and Bates defeats Colby the Blue and White will be tied for first honors with the Garnet.

"Bill" Elliott and "Jim" Blair are recovering from their injuries received Saturday and will be in condition for the big battle. "Jack" Foster will also be out in togs to help finish up the state series.

The trip will be made in closed cars which will leave Alumni Hall at eight o'clock Friday morning. recovered on the Blue twenty yard line. Soule's attempt at a dropkick from the twenty yard line was spoilt, however, when Newhall broke thru and blocked the ball. It was then Maine's ball on the twenty yard line.

The rest of the game, Maine tried forward passing often but was able to complete only a few of them. Several were intercepted by Colby. The game was a thriller, as it went play by play, but as a whole, unsatisfactory to the Blue spectators because of the inability of the team to follow up their gains.

Real Service Must Be Engineered

Many of the men whose names are writ large in engineering history are design engineers; men like Westinghouse, Lamme, Stanley, Hodgkin- son, Tesla, Shallenberger. Their inventions have the quality of usefulness, of reliability, of productability; which is an involved way, per- haps, of saying that they have the primary requisite of all really great inventions: Serviceability.

Engineering history abounds in instances of near-genius that produced no product, and of great developments that never reached comple- tion; and most of these instances are explained by the lack, somewhere in the system, of that ability to give real Service.

Service, in a machine or a system, or wherever you find it, is not there by accident but because it was incorporated by men who understood what was required and knew how to provide it.

Much more is required of the designer than facility in calculation and mastery of theory. He must have first hand and thorough familiarity with manufacturing operations and with com- mercial and operating conditions. It takes more than mere ingenuity and inventiveness to design apparatus that will be really serviceable and will "stay put."

The design engineer, in the Westinghouse plan, is responsible for the performance of the finished product. He cannot possibly have the proper understanding of operation unless he oper- ates and tests, unless he spends time and thought in investigation and study, not in the laboratory or drawing room, but right on the operating job. Here, most of his ideas will develop; and here he will see and prepare for all the different things which the product will later have to encounter. Then when he comes to put his creations on paper, his calculations will be necessary and helpful to check the conclusions which he has reached, and this right use of them requires training and a high degree of under- standing. This proper balance of the physical and mathematical conception of things is what constitutes engineering judgement.

It should be thoroughly understood that the primary function of the design engineer is the conception and the production of new or im- proved apparatus, and familiarity with the practical is essential to the proper discharge of this duty.

It is this view of designing that makes this branch of Westinghouse engineering so impor- tant, so effective, and so productive of real developments.

Friendship Drive but this year the money that is to be raised will send "Maine's overseas team" Lee Vrooman '18 and Mrs. Helen Vrooman '18 to Turkey to engage in missionary-educational work. Maine will not be the first college to send representatives to foreign lands. There has been for years a Y'a'e in China and a Princeton in China. Dartmouth College has had a Dartmouth in Turkey project for a number of years. But it remains for Maine to set a higher standard in this field of endeavor.

When the final drive for funds to support this all Maine "team" has been completed it will be celebrated with a mammoth Christmas party at which every student will want to be present. The tree itself will be well worth seeing, because it will be adorned with hundreds of many-colored electric lights which will be furnished by some enterprising Bangor electrical house. It will be visible for miles around and will in effect announce to the world the success of the Maine in Turkey project.

While there will be singing of Christmas carols and songs for all the students to sing, that will be but a small part of the program. There will be no end of good things to eat but interesting addresses will be given and all in all, it will be a big night for Maine.

There is positive assurance that once Mr. and Mrs. Vrooman are settled in Turkey the Maine in Turkey project will be successful. One excellent reason is the fact that it will be inaugurated under the direction of "Commodore" Jenkins, famous Y.M.C.A. secretary who worked among the Turkish people and who is as well acquainted with the situation as an American there. It was because Jenkins was able to do with the American fleet in Turkish waters what he wished that brought him the nickname of "Commodore" and his strategic direction of American destroyers saved many lives.

Under his direction our Maine team will by the first of next summer have organized itself to work among the Turks and to show them the way of right living and to bring to them something in the way of modern education that will make them better men and women. The support of this team is entirely up to Maine students.

"According to the prediction equations the population situation in the year 2000 will be very near a point at which the population will tend to stabilize, the outstanding exception being that the number of foreign-born in the population will ultimately tend to stabilize at about 1,525,000 which is far below the number predicted for the year 2000."

Kappa Psi Informal

Kappa Psi sorority held an informal Hallowe'en dance at Brown's Hall, Old Town, Friday evening, October 26. Dance orders in the sorority colors, blue and silver, were the only departure from the Hallowe'en idea, which was effectively carried out in the decorations of orange and black and in the witch and pumpkin novelty favors. An order of 16 dances was enjoyed, the music being furnished by Carl Libby's orchestra. Punch was served throughout the evening, and at intermission there were refreshments of ice cream and fancy cakes with black cat favors. Mrs. Munson, Mr. and Mrs. Corbett, and Mrs. Pollard acted as chaperones. Guests of the evening were Edith Gray and Madeline Merrill from Colby College.
